The ability to change symbols of listed securities in ASE

The Amman Stock Exchange (ASE) has completed all technical requirements to change symbols of listed securities. It is worth mentioning that such change will not affect the historical information and disclosures contained on listed securities in the ASE website, they will remain available and accessible by using the new symbol.

The request to change the symbol came due to the fact that re-structuring or changing the objectives of listed companies entails usually to change its name, which leads to incompatibility between the symbol and new name.