Mr. Tarif added that the ASE has continued its efforts aiming at developing the securities market, where it achieved a number of projects that are meant to strengthen the development and increase the efficiency and transparency of the market; modernize the technical infrastructure, and enhance the information dissemination. The ASE has amended the schedule of trading hours for all traded securities during 2011. Amending the schedule of trading hours comes to provide an additional time to; contact listed companies to disclose all required information and results of general assembly meetings, contact Jordan Capital Market Institutions and other relevant departments regarding procedures of the public shareholding companies and the ASE's members.

Moreover, the ASE amended some articles in the Listing Securities Directives including suspending the trading in the shares of the companies that decide to decrease their capital only after the ASE receives the approval of the Minister of Trade and Industry for the company to decrease its capital. This amendment was made in order to protect the interests of the shareholders by leaving the shares of the companies available for trading until the minister approves the capital reduction, so the investors can have the time to obtain all the necessary information regarding the companies' decision of reducing its capital so they can take their investment decision based on better knowledge before the capital reduction takes place.

Another amendment is regarding the delisting of companies that are ordered by court to start compulsory liquidation in addition to companies whose general assembly decides to start voluntary liquidation, besides delisting the suspended from trading for more than two years.

Two new companies have been listed at the ASE during 2011, bringing the number of listed companies to 247. In addition, the market capitalization of listed shares at the ASE has amounted to JD19.3 Billion, constituting 102.7% of the GDP.
