ASE was Re-elected as a Member of the Board of Directors of the AFCM

During the Annual General Meeting of the Arab Federation of Capital Markets (AFCM) 2026, the Amman Stock Exchange (ASE) was re-elected as a member of the Board of Directors of the AFCM, the Federation's highest governing body. The Board also includes the Egyptian Exchange, Palestine Exchange, Saudi Exchange (Tadawul), Bahrain Bourse, Bourse de Tunis, Misr for Central Clearing, Depository and Registry (MCDR), and Muscat Clearing and Depository Company (MCDC).

The CEO of the ASE, Mazen Wathaifi, stated that the ASE's re-election to the Board of Directors of the Federation, reflects the members' appreciation of Jordan and the important role played by the ASE within the Federation over the past years, as well as its active participation in the Federation's activities and committees.

He added that this re-election comes in light of the development and modernization of the national capital market's regulatory and technical frameworks and infrastructure, as part of a strategic plan aimed at advancing the capital market and improving its investment climate in line with the latest international standards and best practices.

It is worth mentioning that, during the Federation's Annual Conference, the ASE received the Arab Federation of Capital Markets (AFCM) Annual Award for 2025 as the Best Performing Arab Stock Exchange in terms of price index growth, in recognition of its performance throughout 2025.

The AFCM comprises 18 Arab exchanges, seven clearing companies, and a number of financial institutions, including brokerage firms, asset management companies, research centers, listed companies, and investment funds across the Arab region, including the Gulf countries, the Levant, and Arab countries in Africa.

The Federation was established to contribute to the development of regulations, promote coordinated and proactive legislation, facilitate the exchange of views, and provide opportunities for cooperation among its members.
